Where the Soldiers Sleep.

By EUGENE C. DOLSON.

(Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.)

THERE'S a quiet spot on the hillside high
 Where, unforgotten, the sleepers lie,
 All, all around in the close cut sward.
 Over their graves white stones keep guard.
 'Tis a peaceful scene all summer long
 And silent, save for the robin's song.

UNDER the warm blue sky of May
 The graves on the hill are green today.
 On many a mound to left and right
 There's a little fluttering flag in sight,
 And the little bright flag its vigil keeps,
 Night and day, where a soldier sleeps.

BETA ALPHA vs. PI SIGMA DEBATE

The two junior Academy societies for boys, the Beta Alpha and the Pi Sigma, held their first annual debate in the upper chapel last Saturday evening.

A good crowd came out to hear the young men debate and the room was filled very quickly. H. E. Taylor acted as presiding officer.

The question was a good one and was well handled. As stated it read, Resolved, That, the United States' Navy Should Be Increased More Than is Provided for in the Present Policy.

The affirmative was upheld by Beta Alpha which was represented by the Messrs. Clyde Evans, Otis Dorsett and Leonard Fenwick with Messrs. Homer Biggerstaff, Lucian Holman and Robert Sheehan as alternates.

The negative was upheld by Pi Sigma which was represented by L. A. Byrd, William Fielder and Rufus Morgan with Robert Edwards, Fred Evans and Stewart Farr as alternates.

The decision was two in favor of Pi Sigma.

The judges were: Dr. J. R. Robertson, Dr. George H. Felton, and Prof. Charles Messner.

The debate was a most interesting one and made a good beginning for the long series of such contests which we may expect in the coming years.

ACADEMY vs. VOCATIONAL

When the baseball season opened in the early spring each of the departments of the school trotted out their band of warriors and went in for the laurels. The agreement was that the two teams making the highest standing should play a final series of three try-out games, to decide which should be pronounced winner of the season's spoils.

The Academy and Vocational teams made the best records, hence the championship rested between the two.

A week ago last Monday the first game of the final series was played, in which the Academy won by a score of 8 to 3, but owing to an excess of copy, the detailed account of the game could not appear.

Last Monday the second game of the series was played in which the Academy again "wallalooosed" their opponents but this time by a closer score of 5 to 2. This gave the Academy Department the baseball championship for the year 1915.

The game was hotly contested as the Vocational boys put up a hard and stubborn fight. The close of the sixth inning registered one run for the Academy with none for the Vocationals. The score stood 2 to 2 at the close of the first half of the eighth inning but the Academy boys came to the bat the last half and made three runs thereby making the final score of five.

In the course of the game the Academy boys made 7 hits and 2 errors while the Vocational boys made 3 hits and 4 errors.

Clark and Hilliard struck out 6 men, and Caywood struck out 3.

The line ups were:
 Academy:—Clark and Hilliard, P;

Snoddy, C; Godbey SS; Rice 1B; Hem-bree, 2B; McKinney, BB; Powers, RF; Palmer, CF; Jaynes, LF.
 Vocational:—Caywood, P; Smith, C; Jones, SS; Carter, 1B; McGee, 2B; Evans, 3B; Wyatt, RF; Fleming, CF; Horner, LF.
 John Welch umpired.

"PI" GIRLS GO ON OUTING

About a dozen young ladies of the Pi Epsilon Pi Literary Society enjoyed a week-end outing on Burdette's Mountain last week, leaving Saturday and returning by moonlight Sunday.

Despite the rain which came up Sunday the girls' spirits were not impaired nor was the enjoyment of the affair at all diminished.

Sunday morning a hearty song service was held, after which one of the party read "A Bachelor's Christmas."

The young ladies returned much refreshed and fully prepared to tackle the strenuous duties of the last two weeks before Commencement.

FRANKLIN SOCIETY OPENING

The Franklin, the literary society for Foundation men, gave their open meeting in the Vocational Chapel last Saturday evening.

The Franklin is but a new society and her prowess in literary lines has been as yet somewhat untried and unproven. The program afforded for the evening, however, bespoke much in favor of the work being done and gave promise of something even better in the future.

C. P. DICK DIES

C. P. Dick, the father of George Dick, and Mrs. Joe Stephens, died at his son's home on Richmond street last Thursday morning.

The deceased with his wife and daughter Ora, moved to Berea the latter part of last summer to spend the winter with Mr. Dick and family, as they have done for the past several years. He was in good health until last February, when he received the first of a series of attacks of stomach trouble. He suffered from these chronic attacks until about three weeks ago when his condition became worse and confinement was necessary. From that time on his condition grew more and more precarious, finally resulting in death.

Mr. Dick was a resident of Harrison, O. He leaves five children: three sons, George of Berea; Dave of Harrison, O.; James of Hamilton, and two daughters, Mrs. Joe Stephens of this city and Miss Ora, who came to Berea with her father, last summer.

The funeral services were held at Mr. Dick's residence on Richmond street and the remains were removed to Harrison, O., for interment.

Mr. Dick, Mrs. Stephens, Mrs. C. P. Dick, Miss Ora Dick, and Mrs. Hershberger accompanied the body.

S. L. CLARK DIES

The many ex-students and workers of Berea who knew Professor Clark, former superintendent of the College farm, will be shocked and grieved to hear of his death which occurred at Delaware, O., on May 23.

Several weeks ago there appeared a local in The Citizen telling of a serious fall which Mr. Clark had through a trap door in a hotel in an Ohio town. The injuries sustained from this, although serious, were rapidly healing and his improvement was marked. But a reverse in his condition was occasioned, when thru some means he became poisoned. The poisoning alone would probably never have caused his death, but coupled with the general weakness of the body thru the other injuries, it proved too much for him and his death ensued.

Mr. Clark served the College faithfully here as farm superintendent for a long period of years and it was only with regret and reluctance that the College let him go to answer the call at Delaware, O., as superintendent of the Ohio Wesleyan University farms.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. S. L. Clark, two sons, Francis, dean of the Vocational Department, and Howard, who is now in California, and by a daughter, Lelia, formerly a student in the Berea Academy.

Professor Clark was at Chattanooga, Tenn., when the message came of his father's very critical condition. He immediately left for Delaware where he arrived Saturday noon, in time to spend the last hours with his dying parent.

The body was taken to Hudson, O., for interment.

Our heartiest and sincerest sympathy go out to Professor Clark and to the rest of the little household at this hour of bereavement.
